

DO YOU NEED AN ADVOCATE?

CONSULTATION

Courtney will spend time learning about your family's priorities when it comes to your child with a disability. After a thorough records review, Courtney will guide you through the special education process to develop a plan of action for you and your child.

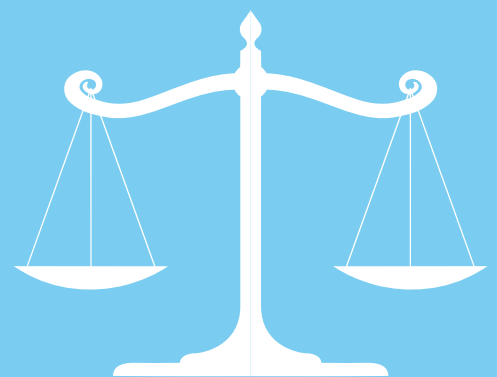

COACHING

Courtney attends 504 and IEP team meetings to help you advocate for needed supports for your child. Her job is to leave the team better off than when she first started with you, and to help you become your child's best advocate. She does this through real time coaching and modeling effective advocacy strategies before, during, and after the meeting.

RESULTS ORIENTED

Courtney uses evidence-based research and the law to get what your child needs. Whether it's through effective negotiation strategies at the 504 or IEP table, or helping you file a state complaint or Office of Civil Rights Compliant or utilizing your other procedural safeguards, Courtney wants results for your child.
